

The Stress Factor - Hypnofertility

Stress is the best conceptive going and needs to be addressed and dealt with. We have all heard of couples who have adopted and then become pregnant immediately afterwards. The effects of stress upon the reproductive process are profound. Stress affects the hypothalamus, which controls the flow of hormones to the body, so stress can actually prevent you from conceiving.

Anxiety and stress acts directly upon the endocrine system of our bodies, disrupting the hormonal balance necessary for successful conception and a healthy pregnancy.

According to Lynsi Eastburn, the founder of Hypnofertility, "unexplained infertility" must be addressed holistically. Hypnosis does just that- it works with the mind, body and spirit and it get results. Hyperfertility is a powerful and effective program for enhancing natural fertility through hypnosis. This unique program guides you to easily access that relaxed and harmonious state that opens the door to conception, whether your goal is to conceive naturally or to receive support while undergoing IVF or other medical procedures. In a relaxed therapeutic environment, the hypnotherapist and the client can work together to bring about positive attitudes and beliefs regarding pregnancy, childbirth and motherhood.
